

Rooms With A View

The 13th annual "Rooms With A View" lecture series continues to give participants access to Rosslyn's special spaces, breathtaking views of Washington, and interesting discussions on various facets of our urban community.

The talks feature either an important issue facing the region or the activities of a Rosslyn-based organization.

For the first time ever, this year's lectures are FREE thanks to sponsorship by:

ABC News 7
Arlington Boathouse
Foundation
The Boeing Company
Key Bridge Marriott
Olsson's Books & Records

Books will be sold at the events by Olsson's Books & Records, Rosslyn's independent books and music store.

Lectures are free but reservations are requested. Attendees welcome on day of event. Call 703/522-6628 for information and reservations.

On the Waterfronts: Potomac Happenings

Arlington County shares with Washington, DC more than eight miles of shoreline on the Potomac, the Nation's River. Access to the waterfront has long been an issue in Rosslyn, which is separated from the river by the George Washington Parkway. Yet plans for the Georgetown waterfront, the Washington Channel and the Anacostia River could dramatically transform the current shoreline on the DC side of the river.

Hear what's happening on the river from Sally Blumenthal, Deputy Assistant Regional Director, National Capital Region of the National Park Service, Uwe Brandes, project manager for the Anacostia Waterfront Initiative, and Ken Gray, executive director of the Georgetown Partnership. Moderator will be Erik J. Meyers, chair of the Arlington County boathouse task force.

An Evening with Cokie Roberts

Cokie Roberts discusses her new book, Founding Mothers: The Women Who Raised Our Nation. While much has been written about the men who signed the Declaration of Independence and framed the Constitution, their wives, mothers, sisters and daughters have been little noticed by history. While the men went off to war, or to Congress, the women managed their businesses, raised their children, and provided them with political advice. Roberts has written surprising stories of women such as Abigail Adams, Deborah Reed Franklin, and Martha Washington – proving that without our exemplary women, the country might never have survived.

Cokie Roberts is co-anchor of the ABC news program This Week, and an ABC special correspondent covering politics, Congress, and public policy. She also serves as a news analyst for National Public Radio.

ABC News 7 Studio Tour

Come be part of the audience for a live news broadcast at Rosslyn's own television station! ABC 7/NewsChannel 8's General Manager will be your host for the evening.

Watch some of your favorite ABC 7 personalities – Leon Harris, Maureen Bunyan, Kathleen Matthews, and Doug Hill – present the day's news, sports and weather in the Rosslyn broadcast studio.

The team behind-the-scenes in the production room is as fascinating as the up-front anchors and reporters.

Afterwards, tour the station, and join members of the news team for a reception and question and answer period. You will be amazed at this brand new state-of-the-art facility in the heart of Rosslyn. Limit 25 persons.
